FROM THE
WAKE FOREST COLLECTION

Freedom to live our lives — isn't that what we all want? Only with freedom is it possible to explore the realm of moral consciousness. The need to learn to distinguish right and wrong should impel us to freedom. Where can we obtain the heart to fight for right, the ability to see truth, the integrity to stand by it always? Is it proper for anyone to deny us the freedom to find these virtues and all the others?

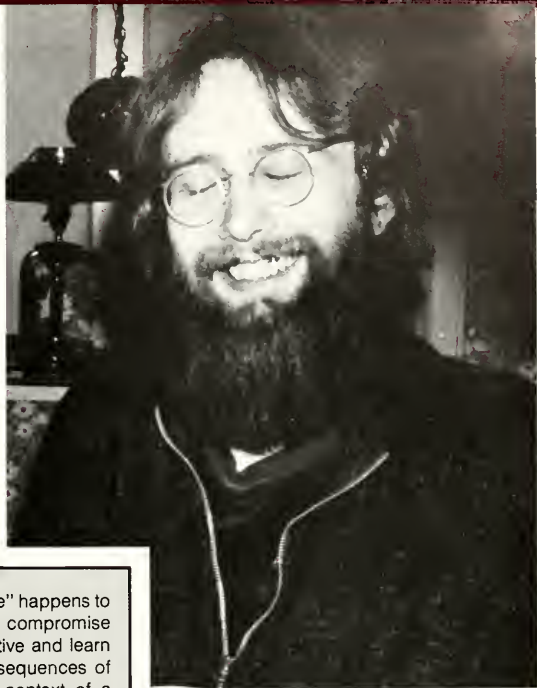

What is the nature of the freedom we seek? Is it a reckless, unreliable "carte blanche" or do we want responsibility, too? Freedom and responsibility are not irreconcilable. Rather, they are integral and each is necessary to the other. Yes, you must take responsibility with freedom and vice versa for without one the other is not complete.

How do we attain these at Wake Forest? Are they given to us, taught to us, bought by us, or none of the above? Millions of dollars are paid to the university each year to provide an overall atmosphere conducive to learning. But, are we getting an education learned by rote or can we actually think? Are we given the opportunity to find that which we should ultimately find or are we given substitutes to use until we get into the real world? How can we be sure that four years here was not a waste?

It is quite possible to look around and see people who have been here for four years and have remained untouched by Wake Forest. More common are those who have been changed by Wake Forest. Rare are those who have themselves changed Wake Forest. The last group is divided into those who did what they did by accident and those purposeful movers who achieved through action. The motivated few are the only students who have mastered the balance of freedom and responsibility — the balance we call maturity.

The "coming of age" happens to those who refuse to compromise their unique perspective and learn to deal with the consequences of their actions. In the context of a world where one's experiences are limited to that which is prescribed by in loco parentis, individuals may seek to transcend life. But the result of escape is not a knowledge but a mystic void; no preparation for the head-on collision with reality.

WAKE FOREST UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

As the sun sets behind Wake Forest, the steeple of Wait Chapel is illuminated in a golden luster, but the tree-lined plaza lies in shadows.

The order and symmetry of the model campus is mocked by the uncontrollable forces of man and nature which seek continuous change in what is stagnant.

An ice storm, a new athletic building, a change in Open House policy . . . they are all the same in essence.

But, willful submission to change has never been the purpose of this institution. Nor is it in the history of the institution.

Rather, the forces may always be seen to encounter a strong and proud resistance.

They say you are foolish in wanting the sun
Say you are selfish
in learning to run
Tell you that the darkness is a blessing in disguise
You never have to notice
if you're sighted or you're blind
And they'll do their best to keep you from the light

Music & Lyrics by Janis Ian
(c)1974 Mine Music Ltd./April Music Inc (ASCAP)

The social policies of Wake Forest cannot direct a student to maturity but just think of the discipline one can acquire. Discipline to make the best of this professed liberal academic tradition will provide a student with the tools for his "coming of age."

CONTROVERSY

- From Coy Privette, a declaration that Wake Forest should not receive money from Atheists, Jews, and other non-Christians.
- From the Services Rendered Committee, a suggestion that Wake Forest return the National Science Foundation grant.
- From the Baptist State Convention, a plea that the Trustees of Wake Forest return to the fold.
- From Mark Cortis, a prayer that Wake Forest strive to be Christian.
- From the students, faculty and administration, an appeal to everyone involved that this controversy be ended and Wake Forest be allowed to pursue her fundamental goal of educating.

Those people who surround you only want to see you weak enough to crawl
They'll lie for you, decide for you and buy up all your rights & wrongs
And they'll try to stop your singing in the middle of your song
For they do not want you free and they will not make you strong but only drag you down in the hole they're coming from

Music & Lyrics by Janis Ian

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is an interdenominational student organization committed to helping students understand and become actively involved in personal evangelism, world missions, and Bible study. IVCF attempts to meet these goals, while providing a place for Christian interaction, through weekly Bible studies and bi-monthly chapter meetings. IVCF invites lecturers for the entire campus, sponsors concerts featuring well known Christian musicians, and other campus-wide meetings.

Dance Club

The Dance Club, numbering about twenty-five persons with fifteen of those in the Dance Company, presented lecture demonstrations in local schools and held their annual concert in the Fine Arts Center this past March. Begun three years ago under the direction of P.E. instructor Deborah David, the modern dance company offers students the opportunity to improve and express themselves through their art and gives an excellent opportunity for exercise.

Using new techniques of synchronized swimming, choreographed by the more experienced Maritimers, the group again produced two excellent shows this year. The Maritimers, composed of strong swimmers not necessarily trained in the art, does not require auditions since all skills are taught in practice.

Karate Club

Jay Johnson
President

McLean Zehler

Secretary-Treasurer

The Karate Club has grown from a physical education class four years ago, into a chartered organization under the direction of Dr. Rick Heatley. The fifty active members meet two nights a week to prepare for the skill and achievement exams held at the end of each semester. These exams evaluate the qualifications of members and enable them to advance belt colors. The Karate Club participated in Super Saturday and presented demonstrations by themselves and by professional karate experts throughout the year.

Outing Club

Tri-Poobahs

Nancy Alexander Royce Weatherly Sissy Kelton

For those students who enjoy a variety of outdoor activities, including backpacking, spelunking, bicycling and canoeing, the Outing Club is open to the entire student body. The club prides itself on being a loosely knit organization with myriad student interests. Canoes and general equipment are available for student check-out at nominal fees.

Although not a well-publicized campus organization, the Rifle Club enjoys varsity status and is a participating member of the Western Carolina Rifle Conference. The group meets formally each week to promote good practice habits and sportsmanship as well as pure enjoyment. Under the leadership of Major Jesse Brackett and Sergeant Zeke Evaro of the ROTC Department, team members practice on one of the finest range facilities in the conference. Ten competitive matches throughout the year keep them in tip top drill condition.

Circle K

Composed of thirty service oriented individuals, this year's circle K was involved in a variety of campus and community projects, ranging from the Big Brother-Big Sister Program to the task of cleaning up after the annual raft race. The club's activities enabled them to capture a third place Award for Achievement in the Gold Division at the International Convention. Members also enjoyed social gatherings with their sponsor, the Twin City Kiwanas Club.

Baptist Student Union

The Baptist Student Union is open to everyone regardless of race, sex, age or denominational creed. BSUers visit the Baptist Hayes Home for the aged, attend bi-annual BSU conferences and engage in intramural sports to develop their fellowship and grow in a close spirit of Christian love.

Chess Club

The Chess Club is a special group of students with a desire to improve their skills. Playing informally each afternoon, these students play in local tournaments as well as some club sponsored all-school tournaments this year.

The International Relations Club seeks to enrich the experience of the foreign students and personnel academically, culturally, and socially by promoting discussion and instruction that will lead to a more profound knowledge and appreciation of international concepts.

College Republicans, with well over 100 people, is one of the largest clubs on campus. CRs try to train young people as effective political leaders and as useful members of society according to the principles of the Republican party. This year a CR-sponsored committee, Students for Lauerma-Becker, actively participated in the campaigns of two WFU professors in the Winston-Salem mayoral and aldermanic races. In addition, CRs publish 'The Pachyderm News' monthly to inform members across the state of Republican activities.

College Democrats

Dave Felman
President

Karen Beasley

Mary Dombalis

Composed of twenty-five members, the Wake Forest College Democrats form an active organization involved in political affairs throughout the state. During election years the Democrats concentrated on campaign work such as organizing rallies and manning polls. They provided help for the local Democratic Party in 1976 when candidates Steve Neal, Jim Hunt, and Jimmy Carter spoke in Winston-Salem.

This year, the club has worked to inform the community and University of major political concerns. Among the events sponsored by College Democrats were: a speech by Wilbur Hobby, leader of the state AFL-CIO; a forum of 1978 Senate candidates, Lawrence Davis and McNeil Smith; and several seminars featuring Wake Forest professors as speakers. The State Convention of College Democrats met in Winston-Salem on March 18-19.

A state licensed lobby, the North Carolina Public Interest Research Group provides a voice in the state legislature for members of both the University and Winston-Salem communities. Largely funded by students, membership is gained through payment of a four dollar entrance fee. This year there were over seven hundred student community, and faculty members. Activities of the group included an investigation into prescription drug price discounts and the publication of a "Handbook of Senior Citizen's Rights." Another major concern among PIRG members was the problem of energy wastage. Efforts were made to inform the public of the need for more stringent conservation methods.

The Accounting Society is composed of accounting and business students who have achieved certain academic requirements and share an interest in the field. Academic and professional endeavors are combined in a variety of service and social functions. This year the Accounting Society has been the host of evening seminars and dinner meetings with guests from public and corporate accounting sectors, and has also provided tutoring sessions for beginning students.

The Urban Services Referral Bureau, known as USRB, is a service-oriented group which acts as an intermediary for all WFU students willing to participate in volunteer programs throughout the Winston-Salem, Forsyth County area. The USRB places students with appropriate agencies, arranges time schedules, and provides transportation. All that is needed are individuals willing to volunteer a few hours of their time to such programs and activities as tutoring, Big Brother-Big Sister, and hospital assistance.

Each year, the organization sponsors Super Saturday, a campus-wide event. In the fall, underprivileged and orphaned children come to campus and are treated to a day of fun and games by volunteers of various campus organizations with USRB as coordinator. In the past, the spring version of Super Saturday has been restricted to single day projects off campus such as painting houses, building fences, and preparing day care centers. Director Jeff Calvert expanded spring Super Saturday to resemble the fall program, because of its widespread appeal.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes

1977-78 marked the resurrection of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. This year the Wake Forest chapter was revitalized by intense involvement and recruitment, following several years of decline in membership. This year's thirty-five active members sponsored a square dance, sold 'Deacon' hats, visited a nursing home and participated in Super Saturday.

Composed of fifteen talented students, the Madrigals had programs here on the campus presenting mainly short English and Italian songs selected by the students themselves. Madrigals are less restrained forms of word painting, which combines chromaticism and dramatic effects of melodic and choral texture. The songs are sung A Cappella.

The 1977 Concert Choir's spring tour culminated in Washington, D.C. at the National Cathedral and the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. This year's choir continued touring and sang in local churches, schools and for civic organizations in the area. On the agenda for the spring of 1978 was a tour of North Carolina through Eden, Durham, Raleigh, Wilson and Kinston. The program included a blend of traditional and liturgical arrangements such as Benjamin Britten's Festival Te Deum, Brahms' in stiller Nacht, and Handel's O Sing Unto the Lord, as well as some more "folksy" pieces such as Shenandoah and Johnny I Hardly Knew Ye. Membership is gained through auditions.

Choral Union

Joe Hill
President

Nancy Osborne

Pam Johnson
Secretary

Specializing in the performance of extended choral masterworks, the WFU Choral Union has performed in recent years Handel's Messiah and Ode on St. Cecilia's Day, Bach's Christmas Oratoria and Vivaldi's Gloria. On the program for this year's Christmas concert was Rachmaninoff's Ave Maria, Haydn's Te Deum, and Vaughan-Williams' The First Nowell. They performed Mendelssohn's Saint Paul for both the Founders' Day Convocation in February and the group's annual spring concert in April. Composed of over one hundred voices, the Choral Union met twice weekly under the direction of Mr. John V. Mochnick.

Composed of about fifty members, the WFU Orchestra met once a week under the direction of Davidson Burgess to practice for their various concerts and performances given each year. Although the group has played for many university functions in the past, a Christmas and Spring concert have become annual events.

The Christmas concert this year featured flute soloist Nola Reed performing Chaminade's Concertino for Flute and Orchestra. The orchestra also joined the Choral Union for a rendition of Vaughan-Williams' The First Nowell. Guest musicians from the University Music Department, Mrs. Kathryn Levy and Mr. John Patykula, performed along with the orchestra at the Spring concert.

A new addition to the agenda for spring was a Pops Concert featuring such selections as Strauss' Emperor Waltz, Anderson's Belle of the Ball and Lionel Bart's Oliver Selections. A joint project of the Drama and Music Departments brought together select members of the jazz ensemble and orchestra for this year's musical, "Cabaret."

Orchestra

Marching Band

Open to all students who play an instrument, the Marching Band provided an opportunity for fun and enthusiasm at all the Demon Deacon home football games. The 1977 version of the band adopted a new look known as the "corps style" modelled after the old drum and bugle corps. The flag team, rifle team and color guard, as well as new uniforms for some members, are trademarks of the corps style marching band. The pagentry and performance of the Demon Deacon Marching Band have become essential to the football spirit.

Spring semester transforms the Marching Band into the Concert Band. Composed of fifty pieces, this group met twice a week and gave an afternoon concert in the spring.

An offspring of the Marching and Concert Bands is the Pep Band which performed during the basketball season. Where would the cheerleaders have been without the helpful assistance provided by this group? Informally organized with no regularly scheduled rehearsals, this bunch of spirited musicians served to add the pep to Wake students cheering their Demon Deacon basketball players on to victory.

Jazz Ensemble

Members come together out of a common interest in ensemble and improvised jazz. Weekly rehearsals and frequent performances combine to give members a thorough grounding in all phases of theory, history and application. The ensemble hosts an annual high school jazz band festival, and frequently performs on tour at many surrounding high schools and colleges.

Wind Ensemble

The Wind Ensemble can best be described as the "cream of the crop" of instrumental players at Wake Forest. Gaining membership by audition only, this select group of musicians plays all the finest concert band music, both new publications and old standards, including some special arrangements. A northern tour of high schools in Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania was planned for the spring in addition to the April concert for the University community.

This group of composed, self-assured students set out with the idea that theirs would be well-planned, fruitful semesters, filled with the knowledge that this year's Howler would be one of the best yet. Little did they realize the struggle that must be borne in order to achieve any artistic triumph. Wading through multiple complications, the staff pooled their energies into creative channels, from the early gestation period through the passing deadlines, never ceasing to hold the ideal before their sleep-blurred eyes. From the depths of foggy images and half-formed thought emerged a polished, published masterpiece, heralded and acclaimed by their superiors and proteges alike. This is the very book you hold in your hands, The 1978 Howler.

Though perhaps not readily apparent, the Old Gold and Black underwent many revisions in the past few years. The banner was changed from Old English type to a more modern style, reflecting a liberalized approach in format as well as content. The Editorial staff was expanded as a result of the greater availability of qualified students. Another innovation was The Gazette, a supplementary tabloid intended to generate student interest in areas not included in the OG and B. The paper's most controversial stories of the 1977-1978 school year focused on the conflict between the Baptist State Convention and the University.

Publications: Co-Business Managers

As Business Managers for student publications, Anne Calkins and Liz Tornow share the responsibility of co-ordinating business activities for the Howler, the Old Gold and Black, and the Student. The job is an extensive one, ranging from generating financial support and securing advertisements from area retailers to managing operating budgets for the three publications as well as handling subscriptions and circulation.

The Student Magazine

Budding artists and authors find a forum in the Student which is published once a semester. Works are presented in a magazine format with the publication available to all WFU students. Citing lack of student interest, the Student Budget Advisory Committee of the Student Government has repeatedly approved budget cuts; however, the Student still strives to maintain literary excellence.

Free darkroom facilities, photographic supplies, plus two dollars for every published picture were the attractions that brought together staff photographers from among the student body. Assignments received from the Old Gold and Black and Howler tempered the aesthetic enjoyment of taking pictures, as pressure increased when deadlines approached. Throughout the year, contributions from good photographers were readily accepted and appreciated by both the publications and the photographic staff.

The Wake Forest radio station, supposedly a student-run organization, is owned by the trustees of the University and operates as such. Though students have ten hours Monday through Friday, and sixteen hours of radio time on Saturday and Sunday, they are allowed to play progressive music only four hours each day. WFDD is, in point of fact, a station producing classical and educational programs for the Piedmont area which, not surprisingly, does not have the audience of the student lounges or the dining facilities on the campus.

Due to its annual turnover of members, Student Government has often been regarded as an ill-defined, nebulous organization by both administrators and students. This past year, however, SG achieved an internal cohesiveness which strengthened its influence as an intermediary between administrators and students. The administration and faculty have recognized this new quality in SG, and have included its members in decision-making conferences, referring to SG as the representative voice of the student body.

Not only has SG developed its relationship with the administration but its members have become more receptive to student input and feedback. They have taken on the long-neglected responsibility of providing services to care for everyday student concerns, such as the need for improved housing facilities, a reorganized registration procedure, and a revitalized Snack Shop.

Student Government has taken advantage of the administration's new regard for its activities, and put through a series of student-oriented programs. The Legal Service, instituted by SG and under the control of Meyressa Schoonmaker, Assistant to the President, serves as a referral service to students who need legal advice outside the realm of school injunction. The student is given a free, 30-minute consultation with a lawyer in town, who recommends either the retainment of a lawyer or further steps the student might take on his own. Extern, another SG-sponsored organization, works in conjunction with the Placement Office. This past Spring Break, for the first time, willing Sophomores and Juniors were placed in actual job situations in the career field that they hope to enter.

In all, the Student Government has opened many new opportunities and services for students within the school environment and the surrounding community. Its success in providing these opportunities are recognized by both its constituents and its administrators.

LaLouvre: Aesthetics

Consisting of an overwhelming percentage of the undergraduate community, sometimes regarded as students, the Wake Forest chapter of the Intercollegiate Union of Dilettantes is part of a growing nationwide network of individuals devoted to the absolute pursuit of nothing. Meeting spontaneously at vending machines and other likely hangouts, the group procrastinates and does other things with great irregularity.

I.U.D. is quite proud of the fact that no planned activities have taken place during this academic year. Among the unrealized events were: a wandering troupe of Child Prodigies; a lecture on the "Soporific Qualities of Dilettantism"; Ricky Ricardo's Havana Maracas Players; a cooking exhibition and lecture on the "Spatulative Possibilities of Fried Rice" by Mumtaz Mahal of Mama Taj Mahal's Cafe in East Bombay; Sygsbee and his friend Clive from 'Cisco; and the publication of "Geometric Permutations in Polygamous Relationships."

ATHLETICS:
sub humanitate

INTRAMURALS

While intramural programs at other schools may merely constitute a sop to those who decry the overemphasis on intercollegiate athletics for pseudo-ideological reasons, such is definitely not the case at WFU. Frustrated jocks and true student-athletes are permitted and even encouraged to romp around green fields and dark gyms pursuing their own dim visions of grandeur and beauty, and in doing so they add a considerable amount of life and color to a campus that is often in need of both these qualities.

SOCCER

The Wake Forest Soccer Club enjoyed a relatively successful year, finishing the season with a 3-3-2 record that was fashioned almost entirely by underclassmen. Player-coach Kyle Winchester was extremely pleased with the success of his young team and was pointing for a future encounter with the Winston-Salem Internationals, a superior team that split away when the decision was made to restrict the membership of the squad to Wake students.

CHEERLEADERS

Epitomizing school spirit and exuberating pride throughout all Wake Forest athletics, the cheerleaders serve as a catalyst for crowd support of the Demon Deacons. This dedicated group of individuals forfeited the last of their summer to go down to Myrtle Beach to prepare for the upcoming seasons. With the advent of school and classes, the group meets in-unison only twice each week, but countless hours are spent in individual practice and in practicing with partners. The cheerleaders have conducted numerous clinics and have been asked to judge the tryouts of other schools, notably the University of Maryland.

The bad old days of ineptitude seemed remote to Deacon fans as the season began, and it came as no surprise when Furman fell in the season opener. What could not be as easily anticipated was that this victory was destined to be the last, for star-crossed Deacs proceeded to stumble through ten straight defeats. The "low-risk" offense of Chuck Mills succeeded in turning the ball over more than three times per game, and even the defense crumbled.

While the season was a collective disaster, some individuals performed nobly. Mike McGlamry broke many of Norm Sneed's passing records, mostly with Steve Young as receiver. Center Larry Tearry and Defensive Back James Royster were All-ACC. James McDougald, a marked man for much of the year, fell just short of the thousand-yard barrier and George Ervin set a school record for number of kickoff returns.

WFU 24, FURMAN 13

The Deacs, enjoying their unaccustomed status as favorites, proved the oddsmakers right in unhorsing Furman in a relatively well-played game. Neither team showed any inclination to dominate the other in the first half, but superior depth and experience helped Wake wear down the gallant Paladins in the second half. The game's most critical play was made by All-ACC Tight End Steve Young, who, with Wake down 10-7, gathered in a Mike McGlamry pass, broke a number of tackles, and fled 55 yards for a Deacon touchdown. An extraordinary interception by James Royster helped cement the victory.

VANDERBUILT 3, WFU 0

After suffering a narrow loss to mighty Oklahoma, Vanderbilt figured to be tough. The Deacs came up empty in an exquisite defensive struggle. Frequent penalties, particularly in the kicking game, hurt. Wake's best scoring chance came in the fourth quarter, when James McDougald stole fifty yards but subsequent efforts gained little, and Bob Hely found the range too great from thirty-odd yards out. Wake fans found solace in the magnificent defensive effort but precious little in the score.

NC STATE 41, WFU 14

On the third week, the Deacs visited the Wolves' lair and returned badly clawed, the final score being an accurate indication of the lopsided nature of the game. The error-prone Pack became the beneficiary of myriad Deacon turnovers (five in the first half), and the defense slowly wilted under the repeated assaults of Evans, Brown, and Co. An electrifying third-quarter dash by James McDougald brought Wake partisans to life, but State quickly dispelled any illusions of a comeback, and the remainder of the game was spent padding stats.

PURDUE 26, WFU 17

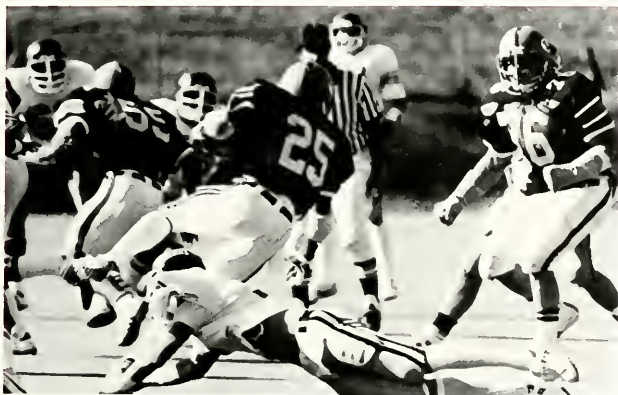

Purdue promised to provide the Deacs with an aerial barrage, and Freshman Quarterback Mark Hermann treated them to just that in what could well have turned into a rout had it not been for a spirited second-half comeback. Hermann completed his first nine passes in a befuddled secondary in leading the Boilermakers to an early 20-0 lead, but a key interception and a sustained drive made it a respectable 20-14 at the half. While James McDougald spun his wheels in the wet turf, Mike McGlamry reveled in it, completing twelve passes to his favorite target, Steve Young. The defense clamped down on Hermann in the second half, but the offense, while showing an ability to move, was unable to put enough points on the board.

UNC 24, WFU 3

An outstanding effort by James McDougald went for naught as the Deacs fell before the host Tar Heels in a most frustrating affair. Showing a surprising ability to move the ball on the nationally rated Carolina defense, the offense was nevertheless consistently thwarted around the goal line, and the net output was a meager three points. After yet another drive had been turned back in the third quarter, a fumble by Ronchy Johnson was run back 70 yards for a touchdown, and two quick fumbles by the kick-return unit treated the Heels to ten more points. Subsequent efforts to mome back proved to be futile, and another outstanding performance by the defense was obscured by the final score.

MARYLAND 35, WFU 7

Saturday afternoon brought sunshine and blue skies, but dark clouds hovered over the Wake sideline as Maryland methodically dismantled the Deacs before a disgruntled home crowd. A rejuvenated Steve Atkins ran over, around, and through the Deac defense for well over 100 yards, and Larry Dick threw effectively, if sparingly. The offense showed once again an ability to move the ball and an inability to score; the effort reflected the entire season in this respect. The losing streak reached five.

VIRGINIA 12, WFU 10

The Deacs reached the nadir of the season by falling to the hapless Virginia Cavaliers, their sixth consecutive defeat. The Wahoos plodded to a 6-0 lead at the half, the Deacs crossing midfield only to return to their dressing room. After another Wahoo field goal, however, the gutty Mike McGlamry finally got the offense rolling, completing four passes in a drive that gave WFU a presumably-solid 10-9 lead. A 45-yard kick return gave the Cavs some hope, though, and a few quick passes led to Russ Henderson's fatal field goal.

CLEMSON 26, WFU 0

The thoughts of most Deacon fans turned toward basketball after this debacle in appropriately named Death Valley. In recounting this game, it is sufficient to say that both the offense and defense played ineptly, that WFU did not gain a first down until the third quarter, and that only frequent Tiger mistakes made it at all close. The best thing about the game for Wake fans was that it was not played at home.

DUKE 38, WFU 14

The effort was a good deal more inspired than those of the immediate past, but the bottom line was depressingly similar as the Deacs fell to Duke before a throng of soaking-wet students, alumni, and well-wishers. Both offenses churned through the rain with almost equal facility, but the slippery Mike Dunn and a host of elusive backs bedeviled the spirited Deacon defense. Mike McGlamry's record-tying performance helped to gain many yards but scored few points. Turnovers, penalties and fundamental mistakes once again lessened the opponent's task.

SOUTH CAROLINA 24, WFU 14

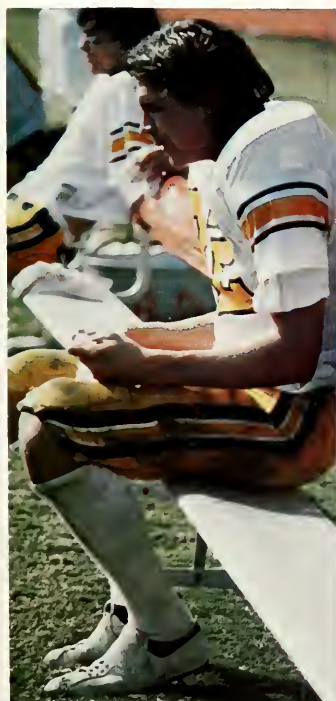

The demoralized Deacs were frozen by the cold and shattered by a powerful Gamecock running game as they stumbled to their ninth consecutive defeat. Quarterback Ron Bass let all of his running backs get into the action, for he only deigned to test the Deacon secondary twice. Mike McGlamry threw frequently and effectively, but Wake's attack could score no more than the customary two touchdowns, and a fumbled punt ended any flickering chance of a comeback late in the game. The lowlight of the game came when Steve Young, who had caught five passes, sustained a knee injury that promised to end his fine career in an inglorious fashion.

VPI 28, WFU 10

The season came to its merciful conclusion ten weeks too late with this loss to the hapless Hokies. Playing for pride, Mike McGlamry set a single-season completion mark, but the defense was unable to contain Tech fullback Mickey Fitzgerald, who stormed over the field at will. His counterpart, James McDougald, came thirteen yards short of his personal goal of 1,000 yards. As would befit the final effort of a dismal season, the same mistakes, turnovers, and breakdowns that had plagued the Deacs all season were partially responsible for handing the game to the Hokies.

RUGBY

Playing city clubs and other college clubs, this year's Fall Rugby club compiled an impressive 6-4 won-lost record in its fifth year of existence, which easily could have been a 9-1 season. Team members felt that they had their best chance ever to win the W.F.U. Spring Invitational, a single elimination tournament.

The club is composed of "individual ramblin' kinds of guys," including undergraduates, law students, doctors, and townies, which practices every Tuesday and Thursday. The club has been chartered by the S.G. and receives grants from the SBAC and charges $15.00 dues.

FIELD HOCKEY

The 1977 field hockey season ended disappointingly, in spite of the coaching talents of Caroline Brown and Ginny Espenshade. Inexperienced Freshmen and many injuries were factors in Wake's inability to produce wins. Individual stars shone brightly, though. Leanne Book, Dawn Belden and Sandy Miller earned Deep South team honors and Belden also received recognition as goalie on the regional Southeast team.

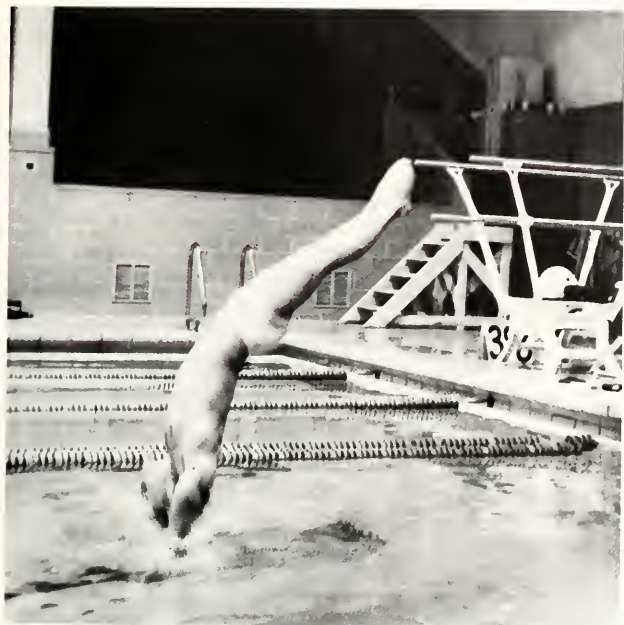

CROSS COUNTRY

This year the cross-country team showed commendable improvement but was once again relegated to the depths of the tough ACC. The young harriers showed promise in victories over Virginia and ASU, seeming to be on their way towards respectability. The women harriers showed similar improvement, but a lack of depth made victory on a large scale an impossibility, so individual development was stressed in an effort to build a strong and viable program.

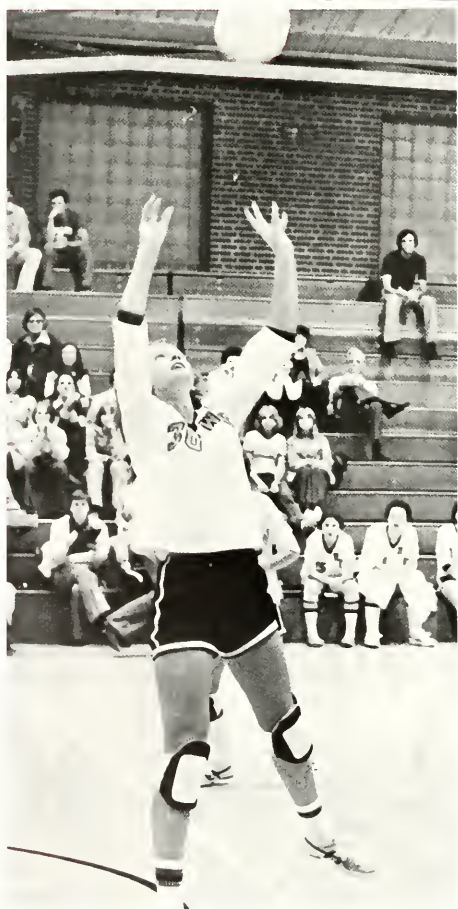

SWIMMING

The 1978 Deacon swimming squad found that even dramatic improvement did not guarantee success in the tough ACC. The Deacs, led by holdover Jim Kusel and Ron Cobb and by freshman Brian Kusel, managed to tread water outside the conference but had to struggle to avoid being swamped by established powers UNC and N.C. State. It was hoped that continued recruiting successes would soon find these teams foundering in our wake.

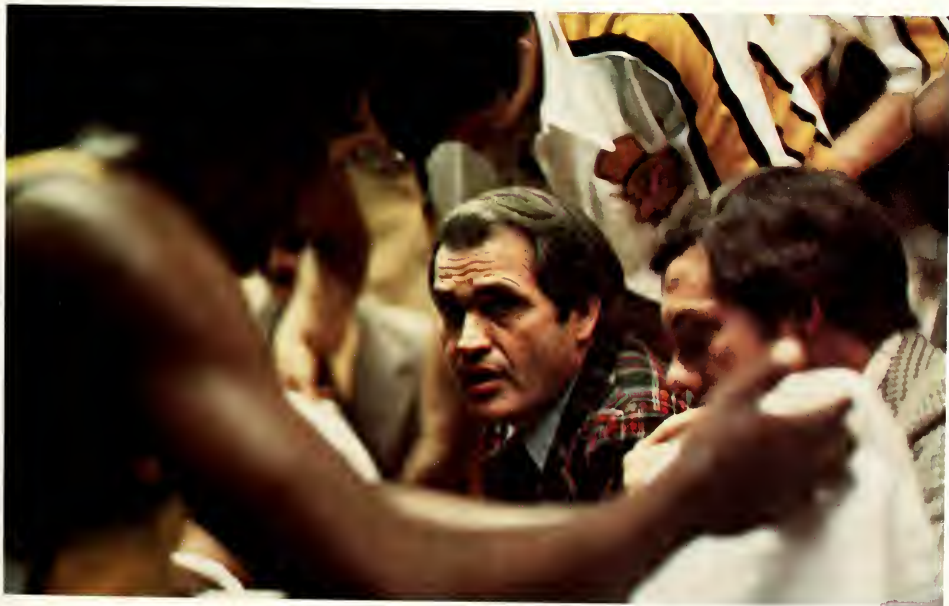

VOLLEYBALL

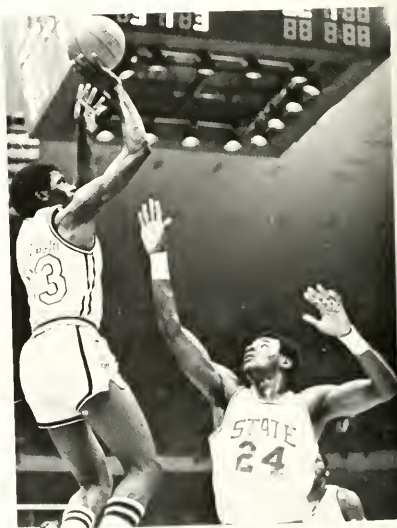

Coached by Barbara Warren, the volleyball team posted a record of 26-19 this fall playing against such awesome teams as UT at Knoxville, NC State, and Carolina. Placing second in the state championship, the Wake women went on to the regionals for the third straight year. Only two players will be lost in graduation—Spiker, Ellen Alford and Setter, Pat Graham—leaving an imposing team again next year.

BASKETBALL

The loss of Skip Brown and Jerry Schellenberg and the presence of several talented newcomers added an element of uncertainty to the opening games that was often reflected in the team's play. Coach Tacy juggled his lineup frequently in an effort to find a winning combination and an adequate point guard in particular, and this search necessarily worked to the detriment of the Deacs in early non-conference play. The Big Four, heretofore the personal plaything of Wake, turned into a minor debacle as State and then Duke emerged victorious on successive nights. The team, gaining in confidence with each game, then annihilated Richmond and Indiana State-Evansville (no, not that Indiana State) and finished with two impressive wins against Washington and Seattle on the West Coast.

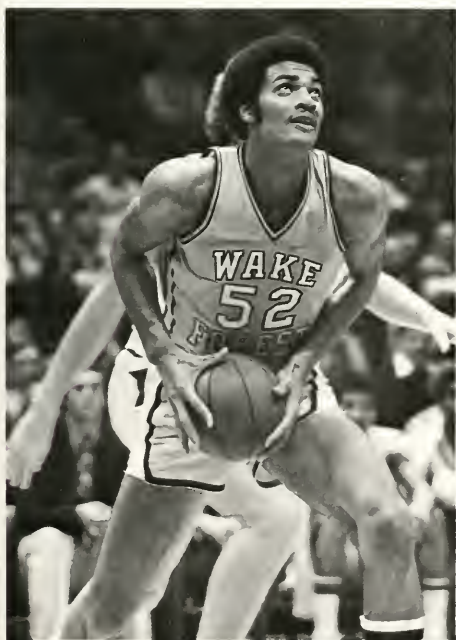

The Deacs began their conference season with a road loss to Virginia and a thrashing of Maryland in Greensboro, thus establishing a pattern of home success and a road failure that was to be followed faithfully throughout the year. After a predictable home-and-home split with Clemson and UNC and a defeat in Durham, Wake enjoyed a giddy two weeks in which national powers Carolina, Duke, and Virginia fell by decisive margins in Memorial Coliseum. Delusions of grandeur were quickly shattered by Clemson, State, and Maryland at those respective locales, but the Deacs regained some respect by outlasting State in a gang war at home. As the finale to a successful but bittersweet season, Wake swept into the tournament finals with wins over Virginia and UNC but came up short against eventual NCAA runner-up Duke; the NIT was unimpressed, and the season had come to a surprising conclusion.

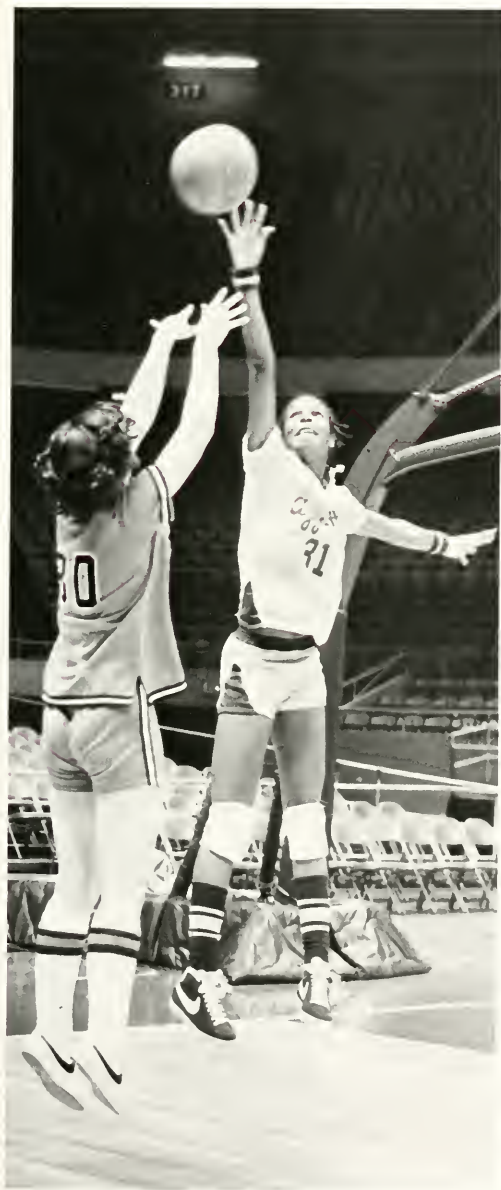

The talented but unpredictable Deacon squad began the conference season by establishing a pattern that would provide a theme for the entire year; a road loss to Virginia was followed by a win over Maryland in Greensboro. Provided with the rare opportunity of playing Clemson and UNC within mere hours of each other, the Deacs struggled past the former but lost to the latter in the final seconds. After a lopsided loss to Duke, Wake took off on a giddy two-week home stand in which the nationally-ranked squads of UNC, Duke, and Virginia were defeated by stunning margins. The Deacs returned to earth on the road, losing to Clemson and State, and concluded their regular season with a narrow loss to hot-shooting Maryland and a victory over the Pack.

BASKETBALL

The Lady Deacs, fielding a squad primarily made up of sophomores, found victories hard to come by in 1978. While it was painfully obvious that the program was no match for that of national power N.C. State, coach Barbara Warren was hoping for more and better things from leading scorer Jane Jackson, top rebounder Jane Hendrick, and the rest of the inexperienced squad and hoping to drum up some student interest for the state tournament later in the year.

HOCKEY

The fledgling Deacon hockey program gained in stability and respect as the Deacs fought their way through three round-robins with Carolina, Duke, and State at the Triad Arena. New coach Jerry Borie and club president Bill Miller noted that, while considerable improvement had been made over the past year, competition was getting more strenuous each year. It was hoped that the community would ultimately give the program a boost by building a rink in Winston-Salem, but the team showed enough ability and staying power to capture at least some of the imagination of the public on its own merits.

GOLF

GOLF

The 1977 and '78 golf seasons were made as memorable by what went on off the golf course as by the relatively mediocre performance of the team on the course. After a season in which Wake failed to win the ACC for the first time in eons, dissatisfaction with Coach Roberts became so great that he was dismissed in favor of the familiar figure of one Jesse Haddock, now back in the good graces of the athletic department. Roberts promptly filed suit, charging that his contract had been breached. In the middle of all this squabbling, the team, led by nationally-prominent amateurs Scott Hoch and Gary Hallberg, finished tenth in the NCAA tournament in 1977 and, with the addition of some of Roberts' prized recruits, seemed to be poised to challenge for national honors in '78.

BASEBALL

The 1977 Diamond Deacs hammered opposing teams and the record book with equal relish. Home run leader and league MVP Kenny Baker led an onslaught on enemy pitchers that resulted in the establishment of eight teams and as many individual records as the Deacs swept into the regionals after stomping a thoroughly surprised Clemson team in the ACC tournament finals. While the departure of Baker promised to leave a void in an offense that averaged eleven hits and eight runs a game, the return of the entire starting infield and of batting leader Ken Gerrity along with the emergence of some excellent young pitching insured the '78 squad of similar success.

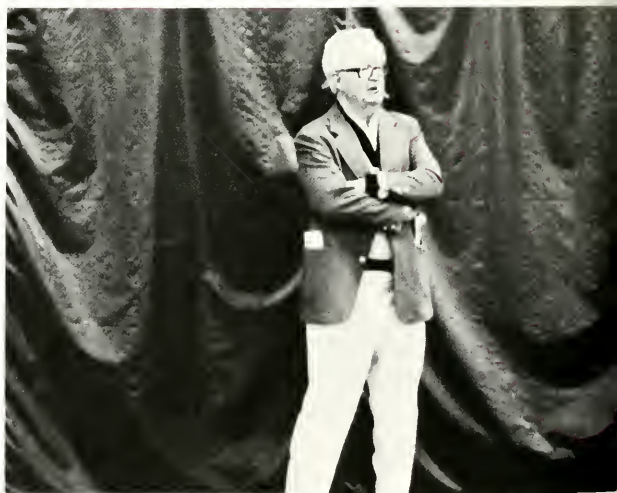

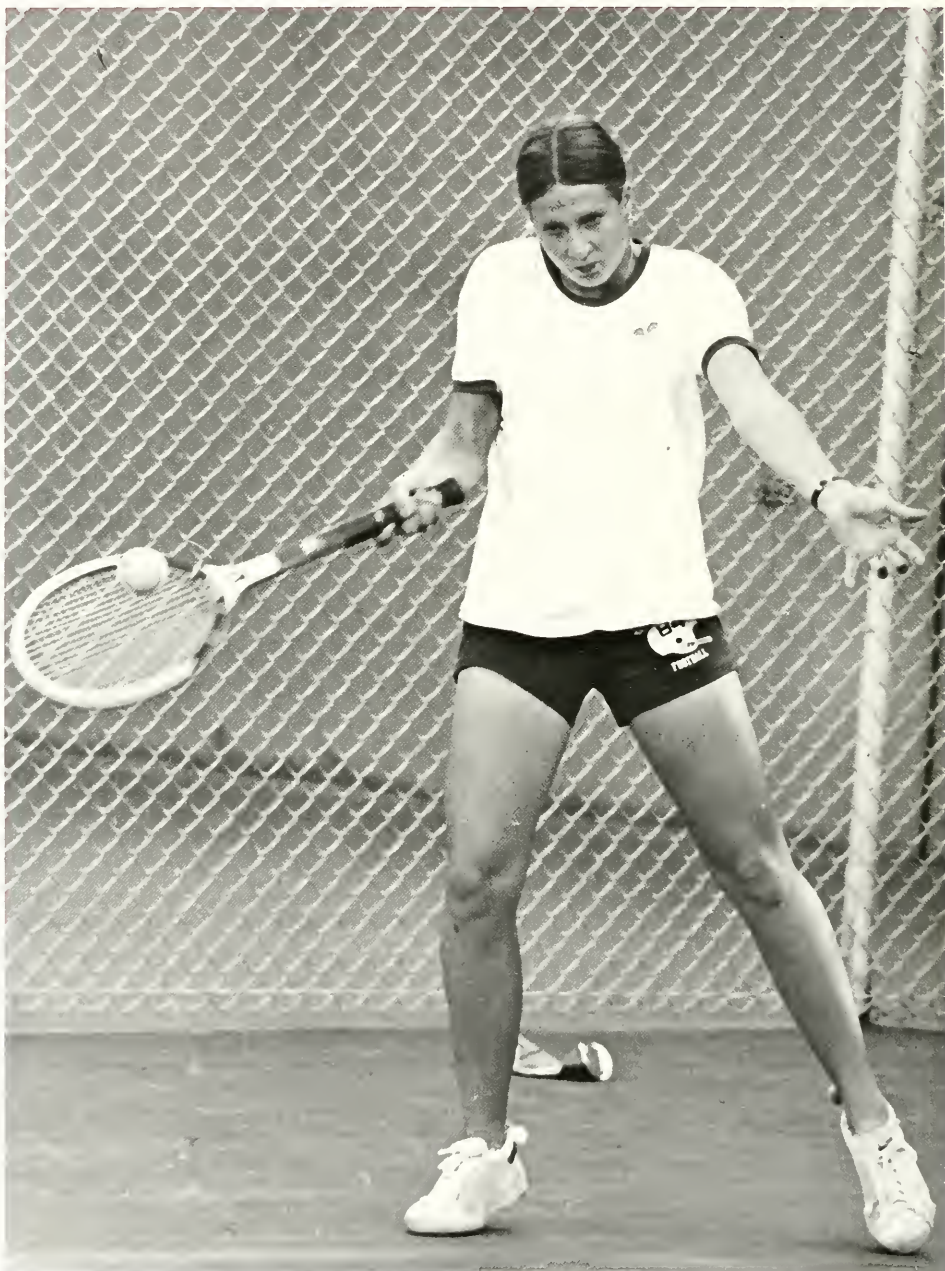

TENNIS

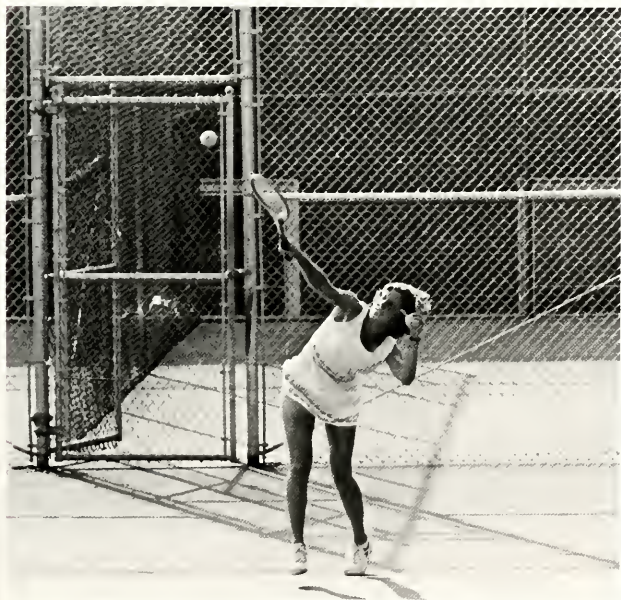

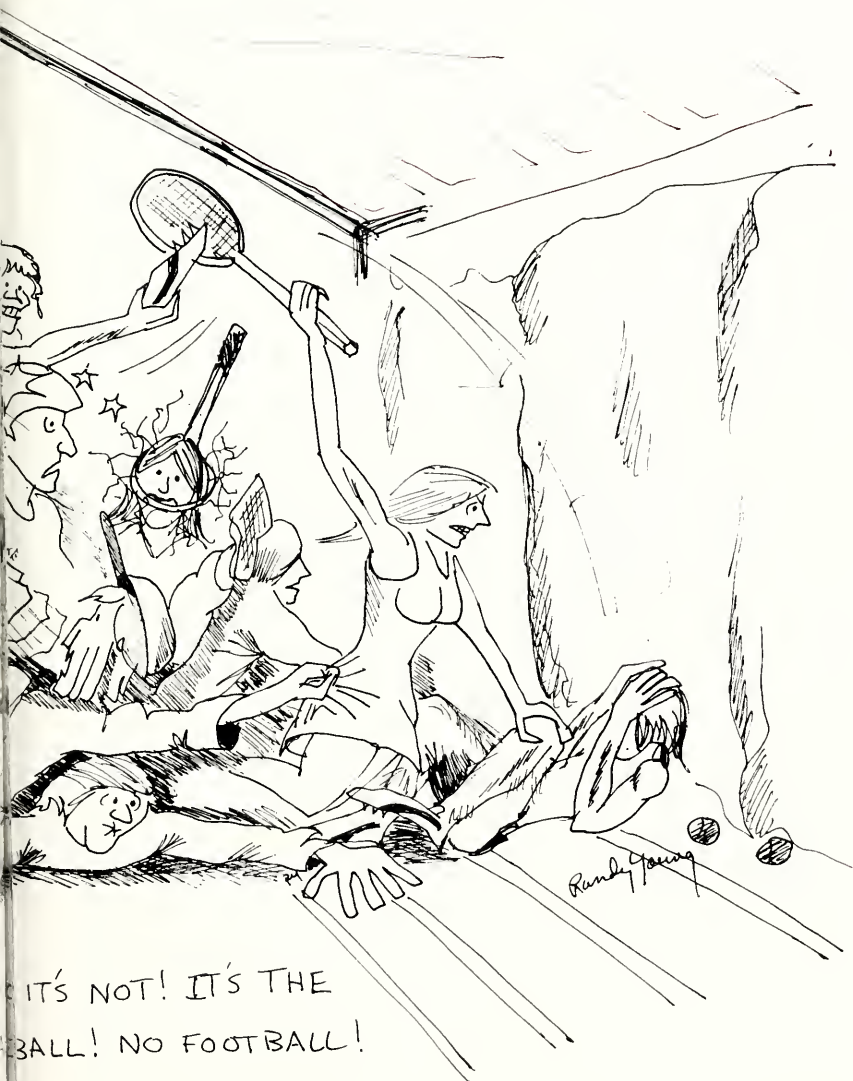

TENNIS

The women's tennis team finished its fall schedule with an impressive 7-2 record. The twelve-person team did reasonably well in the exciting ACC Tournament held at WFU in October and promised to show further improvement in the twenty matches slated in the spring. Coach Smith was planning a trip to Florida and preparing a strict program of conditioning in order to bring the team's level of play up to that of powerful UNC.

I'm leaving by night
I'm leaving alone
Leaving it lie
When you waken I'll be gone
I would not beg for me as I could not beg for you though I'd like to be the one to see you through
